

About Emporix

Emporix provides the leading cloud-native Digital Commerce Platform for B2B and sophisticated B2C in one solution.

The Emporix Digital Commerce Platform (DCP) offers leading features for B2B, B2C and D2C business models with a state-of-the-art MACH architecture (Microservices-based, API-first, Cloud-native and Headless).

The Emporix Commerce Execution Platform (CXP) dynamically orchestrates business processes and enables companies to optimize commerce interactions on the fly based on real-time end-to-end process intelligence.

Wholesalers, distributors, manufacturers, retailers and brands can utilise insights from their core business processes, customers and suppliers to deliver better outcomes for the business and its customers.

Emporix helps to optimize profitability along the entire value chain, from supply to sales and ultimately the customers.

Companies can implement their unique business processes by consuming existing core commerce services à la carte and focus their own resources on what makes them special.

They can serve any kind of touchpoints in a consistent way, integrate best-of-breed capabilities, and enable agile development. They benefit from automatic scaling with online demands, zero downtime, predictable cost and unparalleled security.

Emporix provides this through a cloud-native Software-as-a-Service based on headless microservices and an API-first approach. Its multi-tenancy and multi-site concept is extensible on all levels and continuously delivers new features.
